
Digital Signage Policies

Broad College of Business
MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY

Introduction

This document outlines the policies and procedures governing the use of digital signage within Broad College of Business facilities. It has been developed in partnership by a workgroup consisting of representatives from the Broad College Marketing and Communications Office, IT Services, and Facilities. Two principles guide the policies and procedures outlined hereafter:

Sustainability. With the Minskoff Pavilion coming online along with the renovation of Eppley Center, the number of screens in the Business College Complex alone has expanded from less than 10 to now more than 30. There are no dedicated staff for this endeavor; to ensure long-term success, a sustainable management system for both publishing content and handling related requests is paramount, with employees' adherence to that system being critical.

Accountability. In areas in which units have dedicated digital signage reserved for their use, those units are required to have trained staff embedded in their unit to manage the content on those displays. Units maintaining their own signage also are responsible for the quality of content displayed and its reflection on the Broad College.

Screen Types

Screens in the Broad College digital signage ecosystem have been grouped into five (5) different types:

1. Wayfinding. These are touchscreens in portrait orientation, commonly by elevators, and are reserved exclusively for wayfinding and directory usage. These screens do not accept content submissions.
2. Special Purpose. These screens are assigned exclusively for a specific use, such as the touchscreens in the Business College Complex dedicated to exploring Education Abroad programs. These screens do not accept content submissions.
3. Branding. These screens are reserved for Dean's Office usage. They are used to display high-level branded content, such as rankings and other college pride points, social media handles, institutional messaging, etc. As a rule, these screens do not accept content submissions. Exceptions will only be made in rare circumstances with documented approval of the dean sent to the director of marketing and communications.
4. Unit-Managed. The content on these screens is managed by units within the Broad College for their own usage. Units are welcome to also include branded content made available for downloading from the Dean's Office, but the unit is responsible for maintaining the content on their screens. Examples of these screens would be those located in the reception area of an office suite.
5. Billboard. These are screens managed by the Dean's Office that display branded content, but also do accept content submissions from Broad College units or organizations sponsored by or affiliated with the Broad College.

Branding Screens

The table below outlines the Branding screens reserved for Dean's Office usage. As stated above, these screens do not accept content submissions, except in rare circumstances with documented approval of the dean sent to the director of marketing and communications.

Billboard Content Submission

Who Can Submit Billboard Content

Any employee of the Broad College can submit content to be included on Billboard screens.

For a student organization to submit content for Billboard screens, the group must be registered and have a direct affiliation (i.e. a faculty advisor) within the Broad College.

How to Submit Billboard Content

Content submissions should be emailed as an attachment to plasmascreeen@broad.msu.edu. Content should be formatted as such:

- JPEG or PNG file type
- 3,840px wide x 2,160px high

When submitting, please also include a requested start date/time as well as expiration date/time. Content can remain on screens for a maximum length of three (3) weeks.

When to Submit Billboard Content

Content will be prepared every Friday AM for the following week. As such, only submissions received by EOD Thursday will be considered for publishing for the following week.

Billboard Content Creation

PowerPoint templates for various purposes such as event promotion and visiting guests are provided on the Broad College internal website. Properly formatted files can be exported from PowerPoint with very little technical knowledge required, and instructions for such are included in the templates provided. Users can also create content in the design application of their choosing, provided the file submitted complies with the guidelines outlined above.

Billboard Content Restrictions

The following content is restricted and will not be accepted for inclusion on Billboard screens:

- Low quality and/or improperly formatted content. This includes, but is not limited to:
 - Typographical errors
 - Incorrect aspect ratio or dimensions
 - Low resolution or improperly scaled images
- Inappropriate material. This includes, but is not limited to:
 - Bar crawl and/or party announcements
 - Photos depicting inappropriate behavior (e.g., drinking)
 - Classifieds (roommate wanted, car for sale, etc.)
- Job postings for external positions. Only Broad College of Business positions will be permitted.
- Copyrighted material (unless written permission from holder is provided)

It is the responsibility of the submitting individual to properly format and verify adherence to these guidelines before submission.

Unit-Managed Screens

The table below outlines the Unit-Managed screens in the digital signage ecosystem:

Building	Floor	Location Description	Owner

Unit-Managed Access

To request access to manage content on their respective Unit-Managed screens, the “Owner” unit listed in the table above must designate a Broad College employee as a Signage Liaison. The Signage Liaison must complete a required User Training Course provided by our digital signage platform provider, Carousel, at a cost of $179 to the unit. Purchasing can be facilitated by emailing sales@carouselsignage.com and requesting version 7.5.5.117.

Once the Signage Liaison has completed their training, they can submit an access request to itsupport@broad.msu.edu and Broad’s IT Services will provide them with access to manage the content on their Unit-Managed screens.

Should a unit want additional Liaisons, they must also complete the Carousel User Training Course ($179 for each user).

Until a unit has at least one Signage Liaison, its Unit-Managed screens will be considered as Branded screens with content managed at the discretion of the Dean's Office.

Rights Reserved and Special Circumstances

The Dean's Office reserves the right to remove content from any screen, at any time, without notification, if it deems it to be harmful to the reputation of the Broad College.

The Dean's Office also reserves the right to do special, infrequent screen "takeovers" for high-level events, such as Fall Welcome, the Warrington Lecture, or Homecoming.

Support

Technical support of the digital signage ecosystem is provided by Broad IT Services in conjunction with MSU IT. Content support is provided by the Broad College Marketing and Communications Office.
